10 Case No. 13-cv-02265-JST

11 ORDER DENYING MOTION FOR 12 LEAVE TO FILE A SUMMARY
13 JUDGMENT MOTION

14 Re: ECF No. 83

15 Plaintiffs seek to file a motion this month seeking summary judgment that, inter alia, the 16 Federal Defendants should be compelled, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 706(1), to prepare a
17 Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement (“SEIS”). Motion for Leave to File Summary
18 Judgment Motion, ECF No. 83. Federal Defendants have now represented to this Court that, by 19 the first week of December, they will have completed a reevaluation, pursuant to 23 C.F.R. §
20 771.130, determining whether or not a SEIS is necessary. Declaration of Lanh T. Phan ¶ 8, ECF
21 No. 91-1.

23 Obviously, it will moot the relief Plaintiffs seek in their proposed summary judgment
24 motion if the agencies determine that a SEIS is necessary. But even in the event that the agencies
25 determine no SEIS is required, Defendants are likely to make strong arguments that the issuance 26 of the reevaluation will significantly change the review the Court is called upon to undertake. In 27 Plaintiffs’ cited authority, NEPA’s reevaluation mandate “require[s] an agency to take a ‘hard 28 look’ at the new information to assess whether supplementation might be necessary.” Norton v. S.
Utah Wilderness Alliance, 542 U.S. 55, 73 (2004) (citing Marsh v. Or. Nat. Resources Council, 490 U.S. 360, 385 (1985)); see also N. Idaho Cnty. Action Network v. U.S. Dep’t of Transp., 545
F.3d 1147, 1155 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting Friends of the Clearwater v. Dombeck, 222 F.3d 552, 558 (9th Cir.2000) (“When new information comes to light the agency must consider it, evaluate

1 it, and make a reasoned determination whether it is of such significance as to require [a
2 supplemental EIS].”)

3 Issuance of the reevaluation has the potential to have a sufficiently significant impact on 4 the issues the Court is called upon to address that it will be a poor use of judicial resources, and 5 potentially prejudicial to Defendants, to begin briefing the issue now. Plaintiffs cite no case in 6 which a court compelled preparation of a SEIS while an agency was still in the process of 7 conducting a regulatory review of whether one was necessary. (There might well be cases in 8 which unreasonable delay calls for such action, but Plaintiffs have clarified that they do not argue
9 pursuant to Section 706(1) that the reevaluation itself should be compelled as unreasonably 10 withheld.)

11 Plaintiffs are free to argue that a SEIS is compelled regardless of the contents of the 12 reevaluation, but they will not be prejudiced by doing so after the reevaluation issues. The same is 13 true of the claims Plaintiffs bring under their first and third theories. See Order at ECF No. 82, at 14 3:28-4:11. Therefore, the Court hereby DENIES the currently pending request to file the summary
15 judgment motion. Plaintiffs may file for summary judgment after December 6.

16 The Court notes that it does not agree with the Federal Defendants that the Court must 17 build time into the schedule to permit the amendment of the complaint and the filing of responsive 18 pleadings. It appears to the Court that paragraph 125 of the first amended complaint would 19 encompass a challenge to any final determination not to prepare a SEIS. Moreover, at least on 20 some authority, see Dombeck, 222 F.3d at 560, a challenge to a reevaluation is cognizable under 21 5 U.S.C. § 706(1), and in any case it appears that the Plaintiffs’ § 706(1) challenge is substantively
22 similar to the one under § 706(2). Defendants may file any responsive pleading concurrently with 23 their response to Plaintiffs’ motion for summary judgment, and will presumably make the same 24 arguments in opposition that they would otherwise have made in a motion to dismiss.

25 The Court will adopt a schedule at the November 13 Case Management Conference that 26 will permit the Court to adjudicate this dispute, and determine the appropriate remedy for any 27 violation, by the end of February. The parties shall come to the conference prepared with 28 scheduling proposals that accomplish this goal. In their proposal(s), the parties may propose the

1 modest shortening of the time periods required in the Federal and Local Rules, and may also 2 propose a hearing date and time that does not fall on the Court's normal hearing day, if the date is 3 available on the Court's schedule. If the parties cannot agree on a joint proposal, the parties can 4 submit competing proposals and the Court will choose the one proposal that appears most 5 reasonable. As always, any proposal made to the Court must be the subject of serious meet and 6 confer efforts.

7 The Court also expects the parties to come to the conference prepared to discuss proposals 8 for alternative dispute resolution, and will consider ordering the parties to conduct mediation or 9 other ADR of this dispute in the near future.

10 IT IS SO ORDERED.
